

COUNCIL ON SOCIAL WORK EDUCATION

Katherine A. Kendall Institute for International Social Work Education

2019 Request for Grant Proposals

Overview

This is a 2019 grant cycle request for proposals (RFP) for the Katherine A. Kendall Institute for International Social Work (KAKI).

The KAKI Grant Program facilitates the development of international social work education materials and curricula by helping educators create tools that bring the global context into United States social work classrooms. These projects leverage creativity and innovation with existing knowledge and practice to influence the future of international social work education nationwide.

The 2019 grant cycle spans 3 years, July 1, 2019, to June 31, 2022. KAKI will award at least three grantees up to $10,000 each in this cycle.

Anticipated Outcomes

The outcomes from the KAKI grant projects will be creative, timely, transferable, and sustainable educational materials that support bringing the global context into U.S. social work classrooms. The completed project deliverables, shared with the CSWE membership via the KAKI website, serve as replicable and sustainable teaching resources that educators can use in their own institutions.

Cohort Format

To provide peer support, share expertise, and foster an opportunity for networking, the 2019 KAKI grantees will participate in a cohort model. Grantees will join a cohort Zoom call in each year of the grant cycle and virtually present their final projects to one another and the CSWE staff. Additionally, the current cohort and previous KAKI grant recipients will have the opportunity to meet at the CSWE Annual Program Meeting at the KAKI Partnership Session. A selection of grantees will report on their work and offer insights about their projects and process.

Rules & Guidelines

Eligibility

This grant is open to all CSWE members, including Program members in candidacy. One member of the project team must be a CSWE member throughout the duration of the grant. Projects may include collaboration with community partners or organizations; however, the project lead must be a member of a CSWE member school.

Exclusion Criteria

KAKI will not consider funding for

- overhead costs;
- projects for which the primary purpose is travel;
- exclusively research-based projects; or
- projects without tangible, transferable deliverables.

Evaluation, Selection, Continuous Review, Final Presentation

Evaluation

Grant proposals will be evaluated based on adherence to application criteria, project focus, scope, innovation, and budget to support the project.

Selection

Proposals will be reviewed and selected by an internal CSWE team and the KAKI Advisory Board. Reviews will be guided by a grading rubric based on the proposal criteria and the respective missions of KAKI and CSWE. During the review process, applicants may be asked to clarify and elaborate on their proposals.

Continuous Review

Touchpoints

Selected grantees will have a working relationship with Grant Administrator, Katherine Lord, throughout the grant cycle. Grantees will have two key touchpoints during each year of the cycle: (1) the cohort Zoom call and (2) an individual meeting with the program associate (virtual or in-person).

Progress Report

Grantees will submit one progress report prior to receiving the second installment of grant funding and will use the reporting template provided when the project was accepted.

Final Presentation

Grantees will submit their final projects to the program associate via e-mail and present their project to the 2019 cohort and CSWE staff via Zoom in the spring of the final year of the grant.

Grantees may have the opportunity to present their final projects at CSWE’s Annual Program Meeting during the KAKI Partnership Session.

Final projects and accompanying deliverables will be posted on the KAKI website for the CSWE membership.

Dissemination of Funds

Initial funds (50% of total) will be disseminated on July 1, 2019. The second installment of funds is not guaranteed but will be offered on completion and approval of the progress report.

Changes to the Project

If any changes are made to the original proposal due to deliberate or unforeseen circumstances, the program associate must be informed immediately to determine whether the new scope of work is approved for the remainder of the grant.

Submission Instructions

Proposal Requirements

- Submit application through FluidReview: <https://cswe.fluidreview.com/>.
- Applicants must complete all sections of application noted in FluidReview.
- Project budget must be included in an Excel document attached in the appropriate section of the FluidReview application.

Submissions are due no later than April 19, 2019, at 5:00 pm EDT. Submissions received after this time or not in compliance with the standards outlined above will not be reviewed for submission.

Help Contacts

Any clarifying questions about the RFP or submission may be sent to klord@cswe.org, program associate at CSWE. All clarifying questions on the content of the proposal must be submitted prior to April 8, 2019, at 3:00 pm EDT, and all responses will be shared on the KAKI website so that all applicants may have access to the information. Questions regarding the submission process may be submitted at any point during the process.

CSWE will host an informational webinar on February 25, 2019. The webinar will be facilitated by Katherine Lord, program associate, and include a panel comprising several KAKI Advisory Board members and previous KAKI grantees. Applicants are encouraged to join the webinar to ask questions regarding their proposals to share with the group and receive feedback from the panelists.

More information about the webinar will be sent via e-mail and available on the KAKI website.

Webinar participants will not receive preference in the review process.

Project Prompts

KAKI wishes to inspire creativity, ingenuity, and sustainability for the grant projects. Following are some questions to keep in mind when developing the proposal:

- How does this project bring the global context into the U.S. classroom?
- How many students am I reaching with this project? How could I reach more?
- How could other social work educators replicate this project in their own institutions?
- What lasting impact will this project have on international social work education?
- How does this advance the field of international social work education?

Proposals that internationalize essential elements of the social work curriculum, including human behavior and the social environment, social policy, research, and social work practice, are encouraged. Other topics for grant projects may include human rights, social and economic justice, environmental justice, immigration, migration, climate change, globalization, colonialism, public health, or other suitable issues.

About CSWE and KAKI

Council on Social Work Education

CSWE is a national association of social work education programs and individuals that ensures and enhances the quality of social work education for a professional practice that promotes individual, family, and community well-being, and social and economic justice. CSWE pursues this mission in higher education by setting and maintaining national accreditation standards for baccalaureate and master's degree programs in social work, promoting faculty development, engaging in interprofessional and international collaborations, and advocating for social work education and research.

Katherine A. Kendall Institute for International Social Work Education

The Katherine A. Kendall Institute for International Social Work Education strives to prepare educators, researchers, students, and practitioners for an increasingly global community through its programs and initiatives. Established with contributions to an endowment in honor of international social work icon Dr. Katherine A. Kendall, the Institute promotes standards of excellence for international social work to integrate related concepts into social work curricula and seeks to enrich perspectives, understandings, collaboration, and networking within the social work community.

Proposal Contents

Grant proposals must include all the following content. Proposals should not exceed 10 pages. A maximum of 3 pages of addenda may be included in addition to the proposal.

- 1. Project Abstract (500 words max)

The abstract should present a clear and concise summary of the project. It should include the need for the project, the population it will serve, goals and objectives, and the applicant's professional background and qualifications. Make sure you include the amount of funding that is being sought and how the project will be evaluated to measure its success.
- 2. Statement of Need (500 words max)

The statement of need should clearly describe the problem the project addresses, the population it will serve, and how the project will advance international social work education by bringing the global context into the American classroom.
- 3. Project Description (1,000 words max)

Describe the project in detail using standard research and project procedures (planning and analysis, design, development, implementation, evaluation). Include specifics on what will be accomplished, evaluation measures, and expected outcomes. Explain how the project will advance international social work education for American students and how it will bring the global context into the American classroom.
- 4. Goals and Objectives (500 words max)

Outline project goals and objectives in relation to targeted outcomes. Indicate how goals and objectives will advance international social work education for American students. Include information on future use of the project deliverables and measures.
- 5. Transferability and Sustainability (500 words max)

Describe plans for how the project can be used by other institutions. Discuss how this project can be adapted for different contexts over time.
- 6. Timeline (500 words max)

Provide a detailed timeline of the project, including when the project funds will be used. Include the required in-person meetings with the CSWE program associate (see Continuous Review section).
- 7. Budget (1 page)

Itemize all expenses for your project. Provide specifics about how funds will enhance or support your tasks and objectives.

Travel funds: KAKI will not fund projects for which the primary focus is travel. If travel costs are included in your budget, they must be kept to a minimum and applicants must provide a detailed description of why the travel is critical to the project.

Additional funding sources: KAKI will consider funding projects that include funding from other sources, such as community partners or organizations. Please include a description of any additional funding or matching sources in this section.
